Maria Lernerman, CFA, Named Portfolio Manager of the International Equity Strategy

Maria Lernerman, CFA, joined the International Equity team as the portfolio manager responsible for adapting the International Equity model portfolio to meet the objectives of the International Carbon Transition Equity strategy. She will also continue to serve as an ESG analyst and a fundamental research analyst covering consumer discretionary companies. The International Equity co-lead PM assignments are not changing.

Maria's Background

Maria Lernerman is a partner of Harding Loevner. She joined the firm in 2015, initially as an analyst covering consumer discretionary companies before also becoming an ESG analyst – roles she will continue to serve. Maria previously worked as an analyst for a decade at Franklin Templeton and before that as a research associate at Citigroup Asset Management. She holds a BS in Economics from the Wharton School of University of Pennsylvania, as well as the Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) designation. Maria has over 19 years of investment experience.
